

Les Chroniques d-Oniriel

Adaption by OnePromptComic

About this automatically generated comic

This comic was created using OnePromptComic, a narrative engine that operates without human intervention. From a single prompt, a constellation of specialized intelligent agents works hand in hand through each stage — generating the story, breaking it into panels, writing dialogue, crafting visual instructions, drawing the images, and assembling the final pages.

Each agent performs a specific task, and together they produce a complete comic — autonomously, with no human input beyond the initial prompt.

You will notice some limitations: uneven visual style, misattributed dialogue bubbles, or occasional confusion in the plot. These are the visible signs of an experimental work still in progress.

What you are about to read does not match the richness, nuance, and coherence of a comic created by human artists. But it offers a fascinating glimpse into the current potential of artificial intelligence — and an unintended tribute to the complexity of true creative work.

Support the project

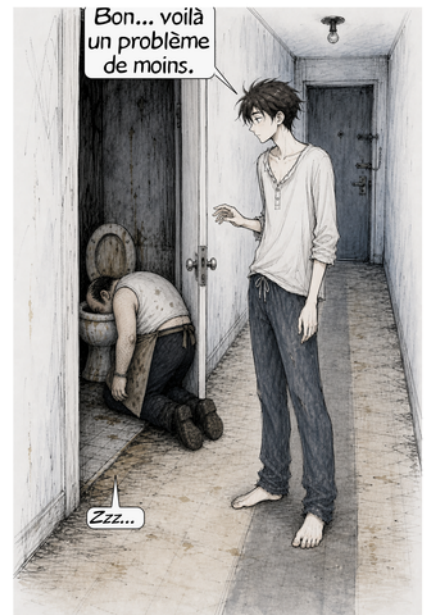

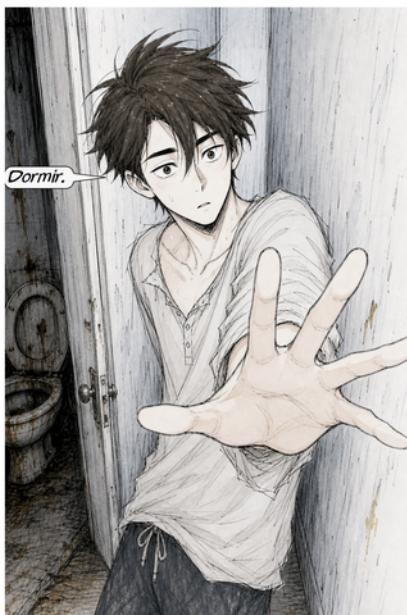

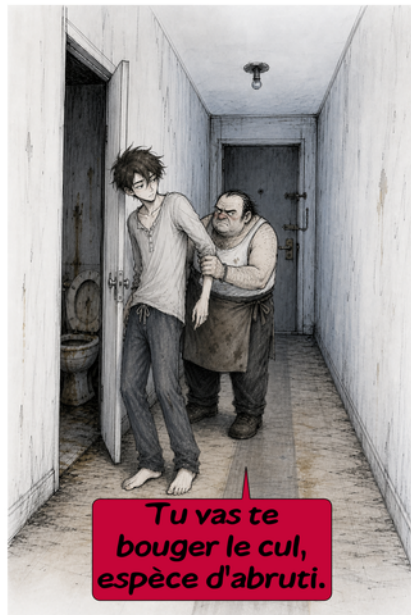

OnePromptComic is a bold experiment in AI-driven storytelling — pushing the boundaries of what autonomous systems can create. If you find this project intriguing, surprising, or simply worth following, you can help us keep exploring by supporting us on Patreon: patreon.com/OnePromptComic. Your contribution will help us improve the technology, run large-scale experiments, and share even more AI-generated comics with the community.
